EXECUTIVE SUMMARY:

The UAE Cyber Security Council has observed that TeamViewer has released security update to address a high-severity vulnerability in its Remote Management (RM) components, impacting both the Full Client and Host versions on Windows systems.

TECHNICAL DETAILS:

TeamViewer has disclosed a high-severity vulnerability in its Remote Management (RM) components, impacting both the Full Client and Host versions on Windows systems. Tracked as CVE-2025-36537, this vulnerability stems from incorrect permission assignments that allow a local, unprivileged attacker to delete arbitrary files using SYSTEM privileges. The flaw is exploitable through the misuse of the MSI rollback mechanism and could lead to privilege escalation or system compromise.

The vulnerability affects only systems with Remote Management features enabled (i.e., Backup, Monitoring, and Patch Management) and has been patched in version 15.67 and related versions. TeamViewer reports no evidence of active exploitation in the wild but strongly urges users to apply security updates immediately.
